Answer key

Every answer carries the reason behind it. Read the reason for the questions you got right as well — that is where you find out whether you were right for the right reason.

A. Multiple choice

1. B) some — A positive statement takes some, whether the noun is countable or uncountable.
2. B) any — A negative sentence takes any.
3. A) any — An ordinary question asking for information takes any.
4. B) some — Offers use some, because the speaker expects the answer to be yes.
5. D) some — This is a positive statement, so some is correct — and help is uncountable, so a is impossible.
6. C) any — Isn't makes the sentence negative, so it takes any.
7. C) some — A request takes some, exactly as an offer does.
8. D) any — A question asking for information takes any.
9. A) some — A positive statement with an uncountable noun takes some. Bread cannot take a.
10. D) I have some money. — A positive statement takes some, and money is uncountable so it never takes a.

B. Fill in the blank

1. some — A positive statement takes some, with countable and uncountable nouns alike.
2. any — Haven't makes the sentence negative, so the quantifier is any.
3. any — An ordinary question asking for information takes any.
4. some — This is an offer, and offers take some however they are phrased.
5. some — A positive statement with uncountable and plural nouns takes some.
6. any — Isn't makes it negative, so any is the only possibility.
7. some — A request takes some, in the same way an offer does.
8. any — A question checking the facts takes any.

C. Sentence building

1. There are some letters for you.
2. We haven't got any coffee left.
3. Would you like some tea?
4. Are there any seats on the train?
5. I need some help with the shopping.
